INTERMINGLING OF THE COMMUNITIES

The Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival has again gone into the realms of the past and in passing left the hearts and minds of all directly and indirectly concerned, the varied gratifications, distinctions or disappointments that all aspirants are heir to. Of the latter these become more or less a personal matter and are quickly forgotten by the community in general, but the achievements stand out in a different category—become something to which all lay claim in an impersonal way. One feels closely akin to the instructor or leader in mutual admiration and gratification.

It was with a similar realization that the Pythian Sisters' Cup, donated in 1927 by Greenhill No. 10 Pythian Sisters, Blairstown, was with due ceremony replaced on its stand in the United church on Sunday morning. The pastor had spoken very fittingly on the subject of trophies, and expressed his pleasure in having the honor of thus restoring the cup, a symbol of achievement, to its accustomed place, following the challenge of fair and just competition. The cup had been won in 1928 by the Junior Choir of Blairstown, was not competed for in 1929, was won in 1930, 1931 and 1932 by the Junior Choir of the United church here and has become their property.

Mr. Whitmore, in his remarks, expressed his pleasure also in the evidence of good sportsmanship throughout the festival and the comradeship evolved in the intermingling of the communities in their mutual interest in music, an outstanding art from which much pleasure and enjoyment is derived.

In a general report of the festival the winnings of the High School Choir and the individual winnings are also enumerated and a like pride and gratification is felt in each instance.

Walls Pincher Creek occupies the third place in the total winnings, the reduction is easily accounted for in the fact that quite a number hitherto taking part have gone on into the other studios and activities, and while the younger students progress, fitting themselves for the future festivals, Pincher Creek will heartily enjoy the circumstances of Hillcrest and Blairmore, for the moment basking in the sun—Pincher Creek Echo.

FIFTY NATIONS TO COMPETE IN LOS ANGELES OLYMPICS

Extensive preparations are being made in Los Angeles for the Olympic Games, which will be held there commencing Saturday, July 30th, concluding on August 14th. The Olympic village, which will house 20,000 athletes from 50 nations of the world, began taking definite form last week in a wide amphitheatre which recently was an expanse of wild grass and rolling valley. The capacity of the stadium is 105,000 persons.

It will probably be a good many years before these Olympic games

MOTHER OF MRS. G. G. COOTE DIES AT NANTON, AGED 95

Mrs. Mary McKinnon, widow of the late Donald McKinnon and mother of John A. McKinnon and Mrs. Flora McIntyre, Mrs. G. G. Coote and Mrs. P. C. Loree, of Nanton, and Mrs. R. W. Ferris, of LaCrosse, Washington, died at her home in Nanton Monday evening, April 4, at the age of 95 years, 3 months and 11 days. Her death was due to old age, the contributory cause being heart disease. Up to about two years ago Mrs. McKinnon had enjoyed remarkably good health for her age, and her mental and physical vigor was commended on by her friends. About that time she had a severe attack of influenza, and also sustained a broken ankle. Although she recovered from her sickness, and accident, her health has been failing since that time.

She and Mr. McKinnon were picnickers of eastern Oregon, going there from Ontario in 1875.

Mary M. Phelan was born December 24, 1836, near Martintown, Glengarry, Ontario. She was married to Donald McKinnon at Singhampton, Grey county, Ont., April 11, 1867. In the fall of 1875 they left with their family for Oregon, going by rail to Utah, and from there by covered wagon to their destination. They located at Weston, Oregon, and lived there until the fall of 1910, when they moved to Nanton, where she made her home until her death.

Her daughter, Billa, died at Weston,
Ont., September 7 1891 and her husband died in Nanton January 20, 1917.

She is survived by a sister Mrs.
Margaret McNaughton of Clegarry,
Ont., and four daughters—Mrs. E.
C. Loree, Flora McIntyre, Mrs. G. G.
Coote, of Nanton, and Mrs. R. W.
Ferris, of LaCrosse, Wash.; one son,
J. A. McKinnon, of Nanton; twelve grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. McKinnon was a lifelong member of the Baptist church.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon from the Baptist church.
Mr. Coote is in Ottawa attending parliament, and the other members of the family are here—Nanton News.

THAT INCOME TAX

The unfair features of the provincial income tax are the extremely low exemption rates and the government's decision to make the levy on last year's incomes.

Many persons who had a taxable income last year are now out of employment and either receiving relief or living on what little savings they may have. To levy an income tax on these people is obviously unfair.

It is hardly fair, in any event, to tax without warning an income that was earned and spent long ago.

Had there been warning twelve months ago that an income tax would be levied, those with taxable incomes could have made provision for payment. The tax today catches them unexpectedly, and makes it doubly hard to finance at a time when the federal income tax is increased and the sales tax increased, which will raise the cost of living.

The surtax or filing fee of $3.00 and the low exemption rate of $756 for single persons and $1560 for married persons will work a hardship many who at present are just able to "get by."

It would seem that the burden which the government is placing on the shoulders of persons with small incomes could more easily be borne by those with large incomes.—Bassano Mail.

Another large tract of virgin timberland on Vancouver Island will be preserved for posterity through the generosity of Frank J. Barnum, Montreal philanthropist and tree conservationist. Two thousand acres of timbered land on the Cowichan River has been acquired by Mr. Barnum from its owners. The property is a beautiful park area replete with rivers, streams and lakes, with wild life in the woods and fish in the streams. Canada's Merchant Marine

Recorded Better Financial Operating Results For 1931 Than Previous Year

Canada's merchant marine recorded better financial operating results for 1931. The deficit of $334,210,59 in 1930 was cut down to $44,265,53 in the past year. The financial improvement of $389,925,56 is shown in the 1931 report of the Canadian government merchant marine tabled in the House of Commons by Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals.

Both operating expenses and revenues decreased. The reduction in operating expenses reflects the smaller number of voyages as well as the effort to reduce expenses to a minimum consistent with safety," the report states. There were no major accidents in connection with the operation of the fleet during the past year.

Out For Speed Record

Frenchman Hopes To Try Racing Car At Daytona Beach

Steph French, inventor of a racing motor car which he claims will travel from 325 to 385 miles per hour, said he hoped to take his machine to Daytona Beach, Fla., to attempt to beat the 253.97 miles per hour record recently set by Sir Malcolm Campbell, British driver. The inventor said the car's initial try-out at Daytona was successful.

Powered by three aero engines of 800-horse-power each, and placed to form a motor turbine, the racer in bench tests developed 22,000 revolutions per minute for 57 hours. The car has a smaller engine to start it and set the three large motors going.

Success After Five Years

Young Professor At Pittsburgh Has Isolated "Vitamin C"

A young professor of chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh announced casually:

"We have isolated and identified vitamin C."

For five years, Dr. C. C. King, not quite 35, and his associates, have labored for a solution long sought by research scientists.

He explained he had concentrated the vitamin C from lemon juice.

Vitamin C is plentiful in lemons, oranges, tomatoes, potatoes and certain other vegetables and fruits.

It affects upon the human body also have been known for quite some time. Dr. King said, but how it accomplishes its tasks has remained a mystery.

Also it was known that lack of vitamin C in the diet of humans resulted in scurvy and forms of malnutrition.

Drought and Grasshoppers

Frenchman Hopes To Try Racing Car

Scientific Research Has Proved They Are Co-Workers

Two of the farmers' most vicious enemies—drought and grasshoppers—are co-workers, it is revealed by the basis of scientific research.

If a farming region suffers from drought in one season, according to the investigations, the farmers of that area may expect a plague of grasshoppers the next year. The reason, it was explained, is that aridity is favorable for reproduction of the insects.

A report of the investigation was made by R. O. Crownell, formerly of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Unusually dry weather, especially for successful seasons," Crownell said, "is favorable for reproduction of hoppers, and unfavorable for insects which destroy the grasshoppers and their eggs."

Sowing Wheat From Air

Feasibility Of Using Planes Demonstrated by Soviets

Aeroplanes soaring less than 100 feet above the ground at a speed of from 60 to 70 miles an hour recently demonstrated the feasibility of sowing wheat from the air on a Soviet state farm in central Asia.

The plane sowed an area of about eight acres on each flight, covering a total of 300 acres a day. In just a fortnight, four planes sowed 8,000 acres. Each plane is equipped with a sowing "spray" 65 feet wide.

Transparent aluminum has been produced by a German chemist by substitution of substances in preparing an alloy which retains all the properties of the original metal, yet permits the passage of light. Reduce Freight Costs

Plan Construction Of Road In Great Bear Lake District

Construction of a road around the seven miles of rapids in the Bear River is under consideration by the Dominion public works department as a step to reduce freight costs and simplify transportation into the mineral district of Great Bear Lake.

C. C. Ross of the Dominion Mining and Metallurgy Department, revealed this move in an address at Calgary. Transportation, he said, was the great problem facing development of the radium-bearing pitchblende deposits around Great Bear Lake.

Makes Canoe Safer

Due To Lightness Is Much Favored

According to the latest figures of the Department of the Interior, the wood of the Sitka spruce, a native tree of Canada, is soft, easy to work, and holds nails exceptionally well.

It can be finished smoothly until it takes on a satiny luster. It takes enamels, paints and varnishes very well and it is in much demand for veneer, plywood, stock, woodware, novelties and toys, since it possesses superior glueing qualities.

Due to its combined strength and lightness Sitka spruce is much favored in the construction of aeroplanes, parts of small boats, spars, paddles, ladders, trunks, playground apparatus, etc., and its whiteness and uniform texture, together with the fact that it withstands warping, makes it a suitable wood for table tops, drain boards, and other uses where it is washed.

Declares Feat Not Difficult

Pilot Tells Of Taking Plane Into Crater Of Volcano

Pilot Frank Dorhardt, who recently set an airplane down on the snow inside an Iackashok volcano on the Alaska Peninsula, the first such airplane landing in an active crater ever made, said the feat wasn't difficult.

With two passengers, George Emery, of Seattle, and George Johnson, of Anchorage, Dorhardt circled the volcano several times after going in over the highest point of the rim, about 6,000 feet.

He set his ski-equipped plane down on the snow in the crater and ran it more than 500 feet. As the skis began to sink under the load of gasoline and three occupants he added he opened the throttle and climbed out of the crater.

The temperature was 40 degrees above zero. In cedar weather or with a light load, a stop to permit an inspection would have been possible, he said.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CALL OF ABRAHAM

Gospel Post: "Be thou a blessing."

Lesson 12: 1-2.

Devotional Reading: 11:8-10, 17-19.

Explanations and Comments

The Call and the Promise, verses 1-2.

—Whether Abraham received two calls or one is not known. In the first he is called out of his home is a much disputed question. It seems natural to suppose that the call came to both Abraham and his father at Uz (see Act 1:7-4; Gen. 11:21). Abraham was renamed by Abraham at Haran. When they reached Haran, Terah and Abraham settled there for a time, and there Terah died.

Abraham was the father of a multitude, Genesis 17:15, is based, according to Professor Kent, on a similarity of sound to the Hebrew word "Hebrei," meaning "the multitude."

He became the two fathers, Abraham and Abraham, as both dialectic variations of the familiar Hebrew name Abram, meaning the father of the族 (people).

It is the name of the father of the whole book of Genesis. In him all the families of the earth should be blessed.

Then the call came, "I will make of you a great nation," and Abraham, who had been a shepherd and his wife Sarah, were given the name of Abraham.

God took him away from such associations.

The goal, "the land that I will show thee," is definitely stated in verse 8, and the promised reward, is well made of a great nation, is a thought which runs through the whole book of Genesis. In him all the families of the earth should be blessed.

"I believe you really did," he said slowly, almost incredulously. "Then, as though in swift corollary, "Jean, is there anyone else?"

The question drove at her with its sudden grasp of the truth. Her face grew slowly drawn and pinched-looking beneath his merciless gaze and her lips moved speechlessly.

Odorous way found to cook fish,
cauliflower and cabbage

CANAPAR IS A PRODUCT OF HAMILTON FIRM

Lives there a woman, in apartment, duplex or home, who has not at some time or other reluctantly forgone fish, cabbage, and cauliflower because of the odors they give off when being cooked? Who has not suffered from other people close by who cooked these foods repulsively?

Canapar entirely does away with the annoyance. Merely add a few spoonfuls of Canapar paraffin to the famous French method of simmering and confounding fish and its flavours to the closest casserole. Canapar removes greasy sheets, and handy size packages. When other vegetables are simply wet the sheet of Canapar and make a big splash to the puddling bag. If you like, add them to the hot water steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping off.

Boiled or steamed fish is particularly delicious done this way. No fishy odor in the kitchen, no gummy kettle to clean. When roasting meat, line the pan with Canapar, so that the fat will not burn from burning, and eliminates scorching of the pan afterwards.

Canapar saves fuel. You can cook these vegetables more easily in the same pan with it, without intermixing of flavors. And it is very economical. Just turn the sheet after using it, hang it out to dry, fold back, and use it over and again.

Lots of women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory and does not wear out. This is a particularly useful when having to use a spoonful of Canapar while testing the food during the cooking of it. Canapar is made by the makers of CANAPAR the famous heavy duty paper in the Green box.

"Geoffrey, you are insufferable!" The words came wrung from her is quick, low protest. "You have no right—no right!"

"No, I suppose I haven't," he admitted, touched by the stricken look on her face. "I have no right to ask that. For the moment, it's enough that you don't love me. But I shall never give you up, Jean. You're mine—my woman!" The light of possession flared up once more in his eyes. "Do you remember I told you once that, if a man makes up his mind, he can get his own way over most things? Well, it's true."

He paused a moment, then abruptly swung round on his heel and, without a word of farewell, strode away across the garden towards the gate by which he had entered.

As the latch clicked into place behind him, Jean was conscious of a sudden tremor, of a curious, uncontrollable fear, as though his words had something of prophecy. The man's dominating personality seemed to swamp her, overwhelming her by his sheer physical force.

The remnant of her sinister dream, and of the dream—Burke's dream—was still there. "It's too late to run away. If you don't come into my parlour, you'll be stamped with the mark of the beast forever," returned to her with a disagreeable sense of menace. She shivered a little and, picking up her basket, almost ran back to the house, as though seeking safety.

CHAPTER XVIII.
Cross-Purposes

In the task of arranging her roses in the various bowls and vases Baines had set in readiness for her, Jean found a certain relief from the feeling of terror which had invaded her. Something in the homely everydayness of the occupation served to relax the tension of her mind, keyed up and overwrought by the stress of her interview with Burke, and it was with almost her usual composure of manner that she greeted Blaise when presently he joined her.

"I've raided the rose-garden today," she said, smilingly, indicating the mass of scarlet blossoms that had dropped up on the table. "I expect when Johns finds out he will proceed to meditate upon something for my benefit with boiling oil in it."

Johns was one of the gardeners to whom Jean's joyous and wholesale robbery of his first-ruits was a daily cross and affliction. Only chloroform would ever have reconciled him to the cutting off of a solitary bloom while it was in its prime.

Blaise regarded the tangle of roses consideringly.

"I wonder you found time to gather so many. When I passed by the rose-garden, you were—otherwise occupied."

The quietly uttered comment sent the blood rushing up into Jean's face. What had he passed? What had he seen?

She kept her eyes lowered, seemingly intent upon the disposition of some exquisite La-Orange roses in a black Wedgwood bowl.

"What do you mean?" she asked negligently.

Tormarin was silent a moment. Had she looked at him when she would have surprised a restless pa'rn in the keep eye bent over her.

"Jean"—he spoke very gently—"I—I to congratulate you?"

It was difficult to preserve her air of indifference when the man she loved put this question to her, but she contrived it somehow. Women become adept in the art of hiding their feelings. The conventions demand it of them.

Jean's answer fluttered out with the airy lightness of a butterfly in the sunshine.

"I'm sure I can't say, unless you tell me what grounds?"

"You know of none, then?"—switely.

"None."

She nibbled the end of a stalk and surveyed the Wedgwood bowl critically. Tormarin felt like shaking her.

"Then," he said gruffly, "let me suggest you revise your methods. The woman who plays with Geoffrey Burke might as safely play with an unexploded bomb."

His voice betrayed him, revealing the personal element behind the professed counsel.

Jean glanced at him between her lashes. So that was it! He was jealous—jealous of Burke! At last something had happened to pierce the joints of his armour of assumed invincibility. He had been taken.

Little pangs of thanksgiving, and all that was woman in her rose bubbling to meet the situation. In an instant she had reacquired her aplomb.

"I think I rather enjoy playing with unexploded bombs," she returned meditatively. "There are always—possibilities—about them."

"There are"—grimly. "And it is precisely against those possibilities that I am warning you."

"Don't you think it's rather bad taste on your part to warn me against a man who is admittedly on terms of friendship with you all?"

"No, I don't"—steadily. "Nor should I care if it were. When it's a matter of your safety, the question of taste doesn't enter into the thing at all."

"My safety?" jeered Jean softly. (It was barely half an hour since Burke had inspired her with that sudden fear of him and of his compelling power.)

"Well, if not your safety, at least your happiness," amended Burke.

"It's very kind of you to interest yourself, but really my happiness has nothing whatever to do with Geoffrey Burke."

"Is that true?"

He flashed the question at her, and there was that in his tone which set her pulses alight, quenching the lighted spirit of banter that had led to her "I'm not your friend" remark.

"Perfectly true," she faltered a little. "But—"forcing herself to a defiance that was in reality a species of self-defence—"I fail to see that it concerns you, Blaise."

"It concerns me in so far as Burke is not the sort of man that a woman can make a friend of. It's all or nothing with him. And if you don't intend to give him all, you'd better give him nothing."

He glanced, grave and steady, met her, and she knew then, of a certainty, that he had witnessed the scene which had taken place in the rose-garden, when Burke had held her in his arms and the flood of his passion had risen and overwhelmed her. He had witnessed that—and had misunderstood it.

She was conscious of a fierce resistance against him. It mattered nothing to her that, in the light of a somewhat nonchalant answer to his question, he was fully justified in the obvious. She had to stand and do it. She did not stop to think whether her lover was reasonable or unreasonable. She was simply furious with him for suspecting her of stirring—odious ward—with Geoffrey Burke. Well, if he chose to think thus of her, let him do so! She would not trouble to explain—to exculpate herself.

Jean's answer fluttered out with the airy lightness of a butterfly in the sunshine.

"I'm sure I can't say, unless you tell me what grounds?"

"You know of none, then?"—switely.

"None."

she regarded him with stormy eyes.

"Please understand, Blaise, that I want neither your advice nor your criticism. If I choose to make a friend of Geoffrey Burke or of any other man—I shall do so without asking your permission or approval. What I do, or don't do, is no business of yours."

Could Compete Against

Foreign Radio Programs

If Government In Canada Had Control Of Broadcasting

Against the invasion of the home by foreign advertising over the air, Canada is not so far equipped to offer effective opposition. There are no powerful stations across the border, and the stations that are out the small stations in this country. Alberta offers an excellent example. With half a dozen stations of very moderate broadcasting efficiency, this Province is deluged by American programmes, most of which are sponsored by private interests intent on advertising goods. It is apparent, in view of the inadequacy of the present Canadian broadcasting effort that a national system of broadcasting will have to be organized to compete against American programmes. The type of sales-promoting across the border gives the best reasons why Canada should endeavour to avoid continuance of private radio control. Government control provides a way of escape. —Calgary Herald.

Bank Robbery— Four Murders— Doctor Killed

The wounded bandit in custody His mark caught him

On May 23, 1928, four bandits robbed a bank in Laramie, Colorado. They killed two officers. Then, in escaping with a wounded bandit, they killed the doctor who treated the wounded. This atrocious crime aroused two states to action.

Police people hoped that this mark belonged to a robber who called himself, among other names, Jake Fleagle. Thus the whole gang was identified, and three were hanged.

Fleagle himself, after a chase of two days, was captured. He died in prison and later died. As a result of a finger touch left its print on a piece of glass.

So You Leave Marks

This is told to indicate how you leave marks on everything you touch. You leave them on the toast you butter, on a piece of cake, on a stick of gum.

The germs in these imprints may have been picked up by touching things which have been tampered with. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in this way. A cold, for instance, is passed on to many people—by a handshake.

When you carry germs to your food by a touch—unconscious and involuntary. That is something to think about.

CANADA'S TROUBLES
WITH OVERSEAS TRADE, AND THE REMEDY

As a twenty-dollar suit of clothes weighs only a few pounds, it can be sent thousands of miles for a few cents if in bulk with other dry goods. This is typical of the comparatively small cost of transporting factory goods and, therefore, British manufacturers favor overseas trade.

But, with farm crops, the case is very different. The farm crops of British Columbia are mostly vegetables, fruit and salads. A dollar sack of potatoes weighs a hundred pounds and as its freight to Europe would be several dollars, British Columbia potatoes cannot be sold in Europe, nor can other B.C. vegetables, owing to cost of transportation. Perishability, too, prevents British Columbia small fruits and salads from being sold overseas. Some B.C. apples have been sold in Europe, but the returns are not good. With these conditions, there is much distress among the British Columbia farmers. Many farmers, to my knowledge, have been ruined and starved of the land by having no sale for their crops overseas and no local markets.

Farmers on the Canadian prairies have similar troubles. Prairie products are mostly grain and cattle. A dollar's worth of wheat, at present rates, weighs about eighty pounds and cost of transporting Canadian wheat to Europe usually raises the price above that of wheat grown in Europe. Such is the case, too, with cattle and other prairie produce. For this reason, Canadian prairie crops, as a rule, cannot be sold in Europe in competition with such goods produced in Europe. This is proved by many years of poor results for prairie farmers with overseas trade.

Thus, with the farm crops of British Columbia and the Canadian prairies, overseas trade with Europe is unprofitable through costs and troubles due to long distance. As western farmers cannot sell their crops by overseas trade, they cannot buy the factory goods sent to western Canada from England. That hinders production of such goods in England and causes unemployment and poverty there by depression in trade. These troubles are because western farmers cannot sell their crops by overseas trade.

What should be done? How could western farmers sell their crops? As their trouble is long distance to market, they need short distance to market, like that of European farmers who sell their crops at towns near their farms. Farmers in western Canada could easily sell their crops if factory people were working in towns in western Canada among the farms. The factory people could buy the farm crops and the farmers could buy the factory goods.

That plan should be adopted. The Canadian government should induce manufacturers to put factory towns in western Canada among the farms. The present troubles are because the Canadian government did not do that years ago. When giving free homesteads to farmers in western Canada, the government should also have given free factory sites to manufacturers to put factory towns among the farms like the market towns of Europe. As that was not done then, it should be done now.

In colonization, free land should be given not only to farmers but also to manufacturers, because colonial farmers cannot sell their crops without factories and market towns among their farms. "Back to the land" is misery without local markets. Overseas trade with farm crops is a poverty-making delusion, which is ruining the farmers. As the farmers cannot sell their crops by overseas trade, market towns should be put in western Canada by immigration of many factory people from Europe. The factory people must be there to buy the farm crops to enable the farmers to buy the factory goods. Canadian markets for Canadian crops.

Canada is said to have spent thirty million dollars last year on relief work. Allowing thirty thousand dollars as capital for a factory, thirty million dollars would establish one thousand new factories. That would be much better use of the money as those factories would give regular employment to thousands of men who would be good local markets for farm crops.

The establishment of factory towns in western Canada, to be markets for farm crops while supplying factory goods, is the remedy for the depression in trade and the means of prosperity in the future. It is "prosperity round the corner." It is money in your pockets and a balance at the bank. Try it and then say: "Thank God for better business. We should have done this year."

Factories For Western Canadian Markets For Canadian Crop—JAS. PHIBERT, Mission, B.C., Canada.

FALSE SENTIMENT,
SAYS MR. BROWNLEE

Speaking in opposition to Mr. Fred J. White's resolution to the effect that the order in council for reduction of 10 per cent on Mothers' Allowance be rescinded, Premier John E. Brownlee remarked, according to press despatches, that "there was a certain amount of false sentiment about the whole question."

Premier John E. Brownlee is in the fortunate position of not having been born a woman and subsequently left destitute with a horde of kids to care for. Had he ever faced privation, he might have decided that a ten per cent slice off the monthly pittance of widows is actually far greater than a ten per cent cut off the salary, honarum and perquisites of a Provincial Premier.

Possibly there is a lot of false sentiment attached to all social legislation, yet, so long as Mr. Brownlee, or any other political leader, is prepared to shed crocodile tears over starving humanity when it is politically expedient so to do, we feel that the prevalence could be carried to the point of allowing widows to enjoy the benefits of reduced prices for the government or enrichment from the government.

CORBIN HAPPENINGS

At a meeting of the Corbin Community Club, held in the B. & B. hall on Friday last, the following officers were elected for the coming season: James Booth, president; Max Hunger, vice-president; T. Mansell, secretary, and Mrs. Elliot, treasurer.

Work on the Corbin Tennis Club courts has begun in earnest, and all supplies, such as nets, tapes, etc., have been ordered.

Both ladies' and men's softball teams will be starting to practice during the coming week, as with the last few days of sun and warm wind the playground is drying up fast.

Dornan, secretary; J. Sanderson, assisted by E. Coates, trainer. Last year was the first for a long time that Corbin has entered a team for the various cups offered in the C.N. At a bridge party given in the B. & B. hall on Thursday evening last, Mrs. Reger was awarded the ladies first prize, and Mrs. Herd the consolation. Gents' first went to J. Kolsky, while C. Petrie had to be content with the consolation. The ladies earned a very excellent supper afterwards.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Dave Barnett has returned from Vancouver, after spending the winter months there.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Armstrong, of Fortage la Prairie, arrived here on Thursday. Mr. Armstrong will take over the management of Mrs. C. Latimer's ranch near town.

People here have taken advantage of the fine weather this week, and are working in their gardens and raking, cleaning and burning the winter's accumulation of litter and dirt in their yards.

On Friday night, the L.O.O.F. hall was packed to standing, when one of the most successful concerts of its kind was staged here. Every number on a lengthy programme was well and gracefully performed, holding the crowd with an untiring interest from 8:30 to 11 o'clock.

In reviewing the programme, it is rather difficult to say which item was the most pleasing. Little Irene Wells danced with the grace of an artist, Barbara and Clare Bundy showed marked talent in fancy dancing, while all of the girls, when dancing together, were right on the dot with their time.

The many artistic numbers they did. Mrs. Bundy and Mrs. Littleton, who supervised the training of the girls and who got up the concert, gave two very quaint and pleasing acts, with Miss Nellie McWilliams and Mr.

Harry Pratten assisting. The tidy sum taken at the door was divided between the Union and Anglican church funds here. The programme in brief was as follows: Openning chorus, heel-and-toe polka dance, by 8 girls; "Return of Martha and George Washington," a sketch, by Mrs. Littleton and Mrs. Bundy; recitation, by Sylvia Murphy; "Gaby Glide," dance by 8 girls; cowboy song, "When the bloom is on the sage;" buttry dance, Irene Wells; "Sailor's Hornpipe," by Barbara and Clare Bundy; monologue, "Mrs. Fitzgerald on a Street Car," by Mrs. Littleton; "Call of the Pipes," dance of prayer. Immediately following the 8 girls; "Woman in the Shoe" dance by 7 girls; acrobatic stunts, by Irene Wells and Clare Bundy; "Sir Roger de Coverley" dance by 8 girls; "Irish Red" by Barbara and Clare Bundy; copal residence, exhibited the relics Dutch song, by Mrs. Bundy and Mrs.

Littleton; Spanish fantasy, "Lady of Spain," and tango; tap dancing by Clare Bundy. The following dancers took part: Netta Swart, Barbara Bundy, Josephine Porter, Lilian Porter, Marion Morrison, Isabel Porter, Edith Murphy and Clare Bundy.

The Lundbreck Bridge Club entertained their out-of-town friends at a drive in the community hall on Thursday night when prizes were won as follows: ladies' first, Mrs. Bart Connally; second, Mrs. Swanson; gentlemen's first, Dick Alexander; second, Fritz Jensen, while M. A. Murphy won the guessing prize, being thirteen short of the correct number in a jar of beans. Mrs. Murphy was winner of the lucky number. After the drive, the crowd sat down to a tasty luncheon, served from tables artistically laid and decorated with range all round. The hall was hastily cleaned, when dancing was indulged in for a time to excellent music furnished by Mrs. Ed. Grove.

BLOOD STAINS REDDEN

ON SAVIOUR'S CROWN

ROME, March 28.—Fulfilling centuries old tradition, stains of the thorns from the Saviour's crown, preserved in the cathedral at Andria, Southern Italy, reddened, and blood marks were revived Friday afternoon.

The tradition is that, whenever Good Friday falls on March 25, the Feast of the Annunciation, the stains on the relics of the crown of thorns, preserved at Andria and at other places, undergo the change.

Good Friday coincided with the Feast of the Annunciation this year, and the blood stains changed color, not only on the relics at Andria cathedral, but also on relics of crown of thorns preserved at Naples, Avella, Bari and Gagnoli. The phenomena did not take place in the parish of Melzi, near Genoa, where another relic of the crown is preserved and where a great congregation was assembled Good Friday afternoon.

Strictest measures were taken to verify the authenticity of the miracle and to guard against any mistake or fraud. The miracle took place at 4:10 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of a great congregation that had joined in three hours of prayer. Immediately following the 8 girls; "Woman in the Shoe" dance in the color stains, witnesses burst into hymns of thanksgiving.

Reducing Costs Of Government

The proposal for the amalgamation of the three prairie provinces of Canada into one large provincial unit recently advanced by Premier Bracken of Manitoba, and supported by Hon. Mr. Justice Turgeon of Saskatchewan, does not, it would appear, command very general or enthusiastic support on the part of the people in the area affected. It has only aroused a certain academic interest in much the same way as similar proposals in regard to three much smaller Maritime Provinces have been received at varying periods since Confederation.

This lack of interest in, and support for, the idea of one big province does not, however, presuppose a complete satisfaction on the part of the people with the present unduly heavy costs of governmental administration in this country. That there is a keen and very much alive interest in this larger problem is made manifest in many ways.

There are, for example, the proposals before Legislatures in certain of the Prairie and Maritime Provinces for a reduction in the membership of those bodies. In Saskatchewan, at the time of writing this article, a bill is under consideration reducing the number of members in the Legislature from 63 to 52. The effect of such reduction, if it is made effective, will be a saving of from $20,000 to $25,000 a year. Such a saving is, of course, worth while—as all savings are whether large or small—but, unless accompanied with many other savings in legislative and administrative costs, will not go very far towards meeting the objection that we are over-governed in Canada. Much more than cutting the size of legislatures must be done.

The writer is convinced that it is not in the union of two or three provinces into one, nor in the mere reduction in numbers of the membership of legislatures, that substantial and therefore really worthwhile savings can be brought about. It is not a few thousands of dollars in the costs of government in Canada that should be saved, but millions. Can economies be effected that will save these millions to the taxpayers without impairing services to the people or efficiency in their administration? We believe they can.

But mere criticism of existing conditions, even when coupled with expressions of beliefs that they can be bettered, is not convincing unless accompanied by practical suggestions looking to reforms and a betterment of conditions. Anybody can criticize; destructive criticism is easy, but constructive suggestion and performance is an entirely different and a much more difficult matter, especially as all such action has to meet and overcomes long-established and presently existing conditions.

Not in revolution, therefore, but in evolution, and particularly at this time in co-operation of services, in co-operation between governments looking to an amalgamation of services rather than in an amalgamation of governments and provinces, is to be found a practical, ready-to-hand method of saving not thousands but hundreds of thousands of dollars.

To illustrate: Canada with a Federal and nine Provincial Governments has ten departments or bureaus dealing with agriculture; ten dealing with public health; ten dealing with company incorporation, company law, company taxation, company taxation, including banks, railways, postal service, and insurance companies; ten having to do with administration of justice; ten levying taxes having the power to levy, income taxes, etc., etc. The result is, of course, constant conflict of authority, duplication of services, much unnecessary expense, and interference with and the irritation of the people generally.

Everybody realizes the situation, but governments, like individuals, are loth to relinquish any powers or rights they possess, they are jealous of these things and zealous in retaining every atom of control over them. Even within a government, it is difficult to re-organize departments to meet changing conditions because one department opposes the transfer of any branch of its work to another department, and the more highly organized and independent a Civil Service becomes, the more bureaucratic does it become.

To illustrate again: the enforcement of law and administration of justice within a Province is the duty of the Provincial authority. Hence it must have a police force. But the Federal authority is responsible for the enforcement of its own Customs, Excise, Immigration, Postal, and similar laws, and is responsible for the administration of Indian affairs. So it, too, must have a police force. Then the cities and larger towns are responsible for the enforcement of their own by-laws. So they, too, have police forces.

Four or five years ago the Government of Saskatchewan entered into an arrangement with the Federal Government whereupon they disbanded the Saskatchewan Provincial Police, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, a Federal body, policed the Province in addition to discharging its own Federal duties. The Province pays the Dominion a lump sum annually for this work, but it is saving some hundreds of thousands of dollars annually as compared with the cost of maintaining a separate force within its own. Recently, All Canada, Manitoba have made similar arrangements with its own Federal Government. Thus without any union of governments or legislative bodies, without surrender of any Provincial right or authority, without any curtailment in service or any impairment in efficiency, millions of dollars will be saved to the taxpayers of these three provinces, and without increase cost.

It is the writer's conviction that the same policy can be developed in many ways and made to apply in other branches of Federal and Governmental services. In some cases, perhaps, Provincial governments could surrender certain authority now possessed by them to the Dominion exclusively, and, vice versa, the Dominion might surrender certain authority possessed by them to the Provinces exclusively. These things might be done to the mutual advantage of both, and certainly to the benefit of the hard pressed Canadian taxpayer. But, even in the absence of such actual surrender, surely it is possible by co-operation, co-ordination, even amalgamation of services, to enormously reduce the present costs of governmental administration throughout this Dominion. It can be done if there is only the will to do it.

Automatic Radio Is Demonstrated In Paris

Does Away With Necessity Of Trained Wireless Operator

An automatic radio, immensely simplifying the process of sending messages, was demonstrated at Paris by its inventor, Jacques Detruix, before representatives of the Ministries of War, Post and Telegraphs, Merchant Marine and Public Works.

The apparatus can be operated by any one knowing how to read, obviating the necessity of a trained wireless operator. It works by means of knobs, which are turned like the knobs on a radio receiving set. The letters of the alphabet and various signals are printed on a disk turned by a knob, messages thus being spelled out.

The apparatus is small and light enough to be carried anywhere, permitting its use on airplanes, submarines and fishing smacks and at meteorological stations and army posts. Provision is made in the case of submarines to carry a buoy equipped with the new apparatus, and in case of emergency the buoy is caused to continue to send out SOS calls for as long as twenty-five hours. In case of any sort of wreck the device permits sending calls for help without the necessity of the operator sticking to his post.

Antidote For Deadly Gases

Experimenter Believed To Have Succeeded From Effects Of

Soleilite Tests

A remarkable scientific discovery which may have a profound effect on modern chemical warfare was reported by the London Sunday Express, England, which also indicated that the discoverer of the secret may have died a martyr to his work.

The newspaper said the chemical defense research department of the war office had discovered an effective antidote for all gases used in modern warfare. The department had been experimenting for 14 years in an effort to achieve such a formula.

Military volunteers risked their lives by walking in areas filled with deadly gases, the newspaper said. They were affected by the gases, but recovered immediately from the effects when the antidote was applied.

Major W. R. Calvey, who died March 6th, was the chief expert conducting the experiments. The experimenter said he died without realizing the secret which had been achieved; and that his death, which was said to have been due to pneumonia, may have been a result of gas poisoning.

Seems Hardly Cricket

United States Encourages Indians To Speak Against Great Britain

We note another native Indian has been telling the good folk of Philadelphia what a wicked administration is given India by the British. He was debating with an Englishman who upheld the British rule. It seems to be one of the hobbies in the United States at the moment to flood the country with native Indians to speak against Great Britain. It may amuse the Americans, but it hardly seems to be cricket for them to encourage that sort of thing.—Border Cities Star.

New Pyramid Found

Built About 2800 B.C. Only the Base Remains

Egypt rocks with excitement over a fresh find. A pyramid, built about 2800 B.C., is discovered in the Gizeh oasis. Its base, of 5,000 square yards makes it the largest with the big three. It may contain the sarcophagus of Miss Cleopatra. Only the base remains, the rest having been carried away—perhaps to be used in other pyramids. Ancient builders were odd. Historic Sword Sold

Was Presented To Sir John French
 After Boer War

A field marshal's sword, sheathed in solid gold and with a gold diamond-studded hilt, has been sold to the London Bullion Company by persons taking advantage of the present monetary situation to profit by gold disposal.

It was understood that the sword was the one presented to the late Earl of Ypres, then Sir John French, after the Boer War. The blade was presented by the citizens of Kimberley in 1901 in gratitude for the action of the earl, who led a series of cavalry charges to lift the siege of the city. The many owners said they had no intention of melting the sword, but probably would offer it to the citizens of Kimberley.

"It's a handy remedy. Don't put it away, or it may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is sacrificing a night's sleep because you've an annoying cold, or irritation in your eyes, or a gnawing tooth, or neuralgia. These tablets always relieve. They don't depress the heart, and may be taken freely. That's my medical opinion. It is a fact established by the last two years of practical practice."

The only caution to be observed is when you are buying Aspirin. Don't take a substitute because it will not act the same. Aspirin is made in Canada.

WANT SPEEDIER ACTION OVER PENSION CLAIMS

Ottawa, Ont.—Difficulties of veterans in securing hearings for pension claims were laid before the House of Commons in a flood of complaints from all sides, existing machinery had become clogged with 30,000 cases, some of them heard a year ago, it was contended, and no judgments rendered. In the meantime, suffering, both physical and mental, had been caused in thousands of cases.

Congestion in the pension machinery would pass away eventually, predicted Murray MacLaren, the minister. He laid the blame for the overloading on the parliamentary committee that established the system two years ago.

From all sides of the Chamber came suggestions for accelerating the pension machinery. Peter McGibson (Lib., West Lambton), proposed that county court judges be conscripted to hear cases until the congestion was overcome. Ian Mackenzie (Lib., Vancouver Centre), suggested each of the 12 travelling tribunal judges be empowered to hear cases by himself. Alfred Speakman (United Farmer, Red Deer), advocated abolishing the right of appeal now held by the board of pension commissioners when a soldier-applicant won his case. F. G. Sanderson (Lib., Perth South), said this right of appeal was the clogging-point of the system.

Party lines were forgotten for the two hours the discussion lasted. It arose when an item of $48,500,000 for pension payments was under review. The item eventually passed.

For a considerable part of the day the House considered estimates of the pensions and health department and then switched to the department of external affairs and later parliament of justice. Many millions of dollars were passed during the day with the usual stumbling-blocks being encountered at irregular periods.

Market For Low Grade Wheat

No Demand For No. 1 Northern In Great Britain

Ottawa, Ont.—An extraordinary situation with regard to the British market for Canadian wheat was disclosed before the agricultural committee of the House of Commons. A letter from Sir Albert Humphries, prominent British miller, was read before the committee by Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist. It declared that there was practically no present demand for No. 1 Northern in the United Kingdom, all the demand being for No. 2 and lower grades.

The natural outcome of the foregoing situation would be to lower the price of No. 1 and boost the price of No. 2. However, the exact opposite has been the case and the spread between the two grades at present is as high as seven cents.

One suggestion to explain this was the demand from other European countries which brought in wheat over high specific duties. These buyers since they had to pay a high duty per bushel regardless of grade would bring in the highest quality of wheat. Another suggestion supporting the contention for a separate grading of Garnet wheat was that the presence of Garnet in No. 2 grade and not in No. 1 kept the price for No. 2 down.

Capt. Hawks Injured

Noticed Speed Flyer Meets With Accident In Attempted Take Off

Worcester, Mass.—Captain Frank M. Hawks, noted speed flyer, was injured in an attempted take-off from the Worcester airport.

A soft field prevented Hawks' plane from picking up enough speed to take to the air and it crashed through heavy undergrowth, over rocks and into a stone wall.

Hawks was unconscious when lifted from his wrecked plane. His face was badly cut and bruised and X-ray pictures disclosed nose and jaw fractures which doctors said might result in facial paralysis.

Many Workers Affected

Montreal, Que.—Reductions in mechanical staffs on the Canadian National Railway which went into effect April 9, affected approximately 2,000 men throughout Canada, union officials of the Federated Shop Trades estimated. Special committees are being formed to discuss with railway officials the details of the staff reductions.

Mob Plays Havoc

Premier Squires, Of Newfoundland, Returns After Recent Flight

St. John's, Nfld.—After 24 hours' absence from the city, Premier Sir Richard Squires drove up to his office in a motor car, rushed up the steps and through the door. He was apparently little the worse for the rough handling he sustained while being taken from the Colonial Building to a private house during the recent disturbance, but showed the mark of his recent high cheek.

The disturbance responsible for the unusual state of political affairs occurred when delay in admitting a delegation from 10,000 citizens, who sought to present a resolution asking for "proper investigation" of charges that the premier had falsified minutes of council, worked the crowd into an angry mood.

Stones were hurled at the windows and the police went into action, using their batons freely. Chaos ensued as thousands of men surged to the building's doors and smashed their way into the basement, whence they hurried office furniture and government documents into the street.

Sir Richard was surrounded as he attempted to reach his car from a side entrance, but a party led by L. E. Emerson, an opposition member, and several clergymen secured his safety in a private home. Peter Cashin twice spoke from the steps of the building in efforts to quiet the crowd which finally dispersed and left two injured.

Lady Helena Squires, who also sits in the assembly, was seen to leave the building with a bandage about her head, in the company of other members.

It was believed she had been struck by one of the missiles hurled at the windows from the street.

Changes In Alberta Cabinet Are Indicated

Bill To Amend Legislative Assembly Act Is Introduced

Edmonton, Alberta—Changes in the Alberta cabinet, were indicated by Premier J. E. Browne in the Alberta legislature through introduction of the bill to amend the Legislative Assembly Act.

The amendment would eliminate the necessity for a member of the legislature returning to his constituency for endorsement by the voters after appointment to a cabinet post.

An arrangement of the cabinet was planned, the premier said in speaking to the amending bill, but he could not say whether there would be any increase in the number of portfolios.

There are seven posts in the cabinet as at present constituted. It is expected that when the cabinet changes are made, Mr. Browne will continue as premier and also take the portfolio of provincial treasurer. The post of provincial secretary will go to some other cabinet member.

The new face in the altered cabinet is expected to be Mr. S. G. Ardle, M.L.A., of Olds and principal of Olds School of Agriculture. He is expected to be appointed Minister of Agriculture, a post now held by George Headley, who is also Minister of Health.

Foreclosures Prohibited

Approval Of Debt Adjustment Board Necessary In Manitoba

Winnipeg, Man.—No foreclosure proceedings can be taken against farmers by the Manitoba loans board.

Premier John Bracken stated in the legislature the board and all other government farm loan agencies had been prohibited from taking foreclosure action without the approval of the debt adjustment board.

The premier was replying to criticism of the policy of the board in view of the government's efforts to induce private lending organizations to exercise leniency. He said he believed the farm loan board had been a bit too strict and said he would not defend all its actions in enforcing pay-

HIGHER TAXATION IS IMPOSED TO BALANCE BUDGET

Ottawa, Ont.—With axe and balance the Dominion is determined to balance its budget. Faced with an increase in the debt last year of $119,000,000, E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, announced in his budget speech a double-edged policy of drastic increases in taxation and unprecedented slashing of expenditures.

New taxes, designed to increase the revenue of the Dominion by $55,000,000, were announced as follows:

Corporation tax increased from 10 to 11 per cent.

Income tax exemptions lowered and the entire schedule of taxation increased.

Sales tax increased from four to six per cent., with the list of exemptions narrowed.

Excise tax on all imports increased from one to three per cent.

Stamp tax on cheques, money orders, and promissory notes over $5, increased from two to three cents, and on documents over $100, from two to six cents.

Five cent tax imposed on telegrams, cables, radio messages and long distance telephone calls costing over 15 cents.

Tax of one per cent. on premiums of authorized insurance companies, other than life, marine and farm mutual, whether Canadian, British or foreign maintaining deposits with the Dominion.

Possibly indicating a special session of parliament later in the year, after the Imperial economic conference in July, only one tariff change was announced by the finance minister. Arrangements under which repair parts for foreign-made farm implements were imported at reduced tariff rates, were extended until March 31, 1933.

With hundreds of people lining the galleries, every member in the chamber leaning forward in rapt attention, sat the minister, resplendently clad in black morning coat, delivered his first budget speech. Mr. Rhodes is another in the long line of maritime—he is a son of Nova Scotia—who has directed the financial affairs of Canada. Not a single interruption punctuated his speech, which lasted slightly over an hour.

In announcing his taxation changes, the finance minister said the income tax amendment will apply to 1931 incomes. The $3,000 exemption for a married man was reduced to $2,400 and the $1,500 exemption for bachelors reduced to $1,200. No change was made in the $500 exemption for each dependent child. The 20 per cent. reduction now allowed from the gross tax was abolished. In addition, a surcharge of five per cent. was added to the tax payable by all income tax payers in connection with an income in excess of $5,000.

The increased sales tax will become effective immediately. The excise tax on imports also was automatic. The insurance taxes will apply to premiums paid after January 1, 1932.

AN INTERNATIONAL ROMANCE

An international romance culminated April 5 in the marriage of Miss Frances Bosworth, a cousin of former vice-president Charles G. Dawes, and Dr. Trevor Charles Stamp of London, England. The bridegroom is the son of Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, and Lady Stamp. The wedding took place in Evanston, Ill., in the home of the socially prominent Charles H. Bosworth, father of the bride, with numerous members of both families attending. Beaming happily, Sir Josiah and Lady Stamp, with their son, Dr. Trevor C. Stamp, are shown as they arrived at New York. Inset is Miss Frances Bosworth.

LEADS PROGRESSIVES

Here is a reproduction from the most recent portrait of Harry C. Nixon, Leader of the Progressive Party in the Ontario Legislature.

These special taxes on cheques, telegrams, telephone calls and railway berths, will come into force May 2.

Wielding a drastic pruning knife, the finance minister cut the estimated expenditures for the present fiscal year to $369,000,000, without considering capital expenditures. Apart from money spent for unemployment relief and wheat bonusing, the corresponding figure in the year just ended was $404,900,000.

On the other side of the ledger was $319,100,001—the amount of money existing taxation would gather if left untouched. Obviously this would result in a deficit for the year. Accordingly taxation was increased to a point where an estimated additional total of $55,000,000 would be collected.

"Thus balancing the current expenditure and leaving a surplus of $4,300,000."

"In announcing these additional measures of taxation," said Mr. Rhodes, "consideration has been given on the one hand to the ability of our people to bear the extra burden and, on the other, to the absolute necessity of placing our financial house in order."

Few Tariff Changes

Government Left With Free Hand For Imperial Conference

Ottawa, Ont.—While it was generally accepted there would be comparatively few tariff changes, the budget contained only one tariff resolution came as a surprise. The situation leaves the government with an absolutely free hand for the Imperial Economic Conference in July and to prosecute its policy for intra-imperial empire trade.

The long tariff resolution extended until March 31, 1933, special lower duty rates on repairs for farm implements. These lower rates were brought into effect for one year in the 1931 budget of Prime Minister R. B. Borden.

No announcement was made in the budget on the terms of the proposed new trade treaty with New Zealand. In circles which are well informed, it is officially known negotiations for the agreement are still in the stage of "being under way," and there has been no definite agreement yet.

Appropriation For Great War Pensions

Sum Of Forty-Eight Million Passed By House

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons has approved an appropriation of $48,000,000 for Great War pensions. The estimate is $2,500,000 lower than that of last year, but $4,000,000 greater than the actual pension payments of last year.

The decrease, Dr. Murray MacLean, Minister of Pensions, said, was more apparent than real. A large sum had been estimated last year in the belief that a large percentage of those who had commuted their pensions would be reinstated. The belief was that the number of pensioners would be increased, with the result that the estimate had greatly exceeded requirements.

The department now estimates, on the basis of experience, that 2,000 commuted pensioners would be restored in the present fiscal year, and the appropriation was drawn up in that expectation.

Move For Gas Franchise

Would Supply Saskatchewan Cities From Turner Valley Field

Calgary, Alberta—Negotiations to obtain the gas franchise in Regina, Saskatchewan and Moose Jaw, with a view to supplying these cities with natural gas, will start shortly, according to Mr. J. Hutchings, independent oil operator.

This new move is made feasible by the passing of a resolution in the Alberta legislature permitting export of gas not required for use in the province.

Even if Turner Valley's gas flow was restricted to 100,000,000 cubic feet daily under conservation plans, it would be possible to export gas to Saskatchewan, he declared. Other oil men expressed their approval of the gas export measure passed in the legislature last night, believing it may be a boost for Alberta's gas fields.

Government Asked To Assist Olympic Team

Funds Required For Trip To Los Angeles This Year

Montreal, Que.—A delegation of eight members of the Canadian Olympic Committee have gone to Ottawa to interview the Minister of Finance, E. N. Rhodes, on a question of funds to enable the Canadian Olympic Team to make the trip to Los Angeles this summer. Members of the delegation included P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto; J. M. Morin, Winnipeg, and J. W. Hamilton, Regina.

The long tariff resolution extended until March 31, 1933, special lower duty rates on repairs for farm implements. These lower rates were brought into effect for one year in the 1931 budget of Prime Minister R. B. Borden.

No announcement was made in the budget on the terms of the proposed new trade treaty with New Zealand. In circles which are well informed, it is officially known negotiations for the agreement are still in the stage of "being under way," and there has been no definite agreement yet.

BRITISHERS IN DOMINIONS AND UNEMPLOYMENT

London, England—The question of emigrants from Britain who have gone to the Dominions and in certain cases have found there is a bad plight was again raised in the House of Commons, when J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominion Affairs, replied that migrants had taken the risk and the Mother Country will not take the responsibility of bringing them back home, where unemployment was equally as bad as in other parts of the Empire.

The question was raised by Morgan Jones, Labor member for Caerphilly, who asked about assistance for unemployed British migrants in Australia who are in a distressed condition.

Mr. Thomas said while there was every sympathy for the distressed British migrants in Australia it was impossible for the British Government to provide assistance for their return passage.

Morgan Jones asked whether any provision had been made by any Dominion Government to relieve the distress of such migrants as were suffering.

The minister said he had found no justification for the complaint that Dominion Governments were differentiating between native and migrant relief funds.

"There are still thousands anxious to go to the Dominions," Mr. Thomas said, but he believed it was no use encouraging them to migrate during the economic depression. Therefore he attached "some importance to some Imperial policy which will help." This was a reference to the fact the question of Imperial migration will be discussed at the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

Britain Gets Reply From Irish President

But Contents Of Note Have Not Made Public

London, England—J. H. Thomas, Secretary for Dominion Affairs, announced in the House of Commons the British Government has received the reply from President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State to its representations that the oath of allegiance and the payment of Irish land annuities were integral parts of the Irish treaty and its accompanying financial agreements.

Asked by James Maxton, member of the Independent Labor Party, to disclose the contents of the Irish note, which is understood to maintain the Free State Government's position the oath should be abolished and the land annuities retained. Mr. Thomas replied it was not customary to disclose the contents of such documents without agreement of both governments.

The British Government should have full time to consider the reply before its publication, the minister added.

May Call Special Session

Parliament Might Assemble In Full To Deal With Tariff Matters

Ottawa, Ont.—The absence of any important tariff changes in the budget brought down by E. N. Rhodes in parliament is giving rise to conjecture as to whether a special session will be called this fall to deal with tariff matters. In Government circles it is declared that it is much too early to predict a special session. It all depends upon what develops at the Imperial Economic Conference to be held in Ottawa this summer. It may be conceivable to bring any agreements entered into at the conference into effect at as early a date as possible and this could only be done by calling parliament together.

Special sessions are rare in Canadian parliaments. A special session was held in August, 1914, when Canada entered the war. Another special session was held in 1930 following the election of the Bennett Government to deal with the unemployment emergency.

New Taxes In Effect

Ottawa, Ont.—Instructions to customs collectors, issued by the Department of National Revenue by telegraph, take cognizance of the budget changes. Collectors are informed to "take all entries subject to amendment," and enumerate the various alterations. The increased excise taxes became effective April 7.
